BIG RED

An environmental play for children

SYNOPSIS

Toby Keeper lives with his mum, his dad, Polly the cat and his pet ferret Fergal, at Honeytree Farm, in the village of Blink & Missit.

His parents work very hard and he often helps them on the farm but he much prefers to go hunting, especially in Rooky Wood, where, for a long time, he has been trying to catch BIG RED, the leader of the rabbit community in the valley.

One day, he hears that his father is about to sell Rooky Wood to a firm of builders. Toby determines to have one last attempt at catching the rabbit before the wood is pulled down. He sets off to find Big Red but this time, the rabbit finds Toby first and with the aid of the 'magic' burrow, he turns Toby into a rabbit!

Many adventures then ensue, during which, Toby tries to convince first his father, then his mother, that he is their son and not a rabbit. Failing to do so, he returns to Rooky Wood, where he hopes to persuade Big Red to turn him back into a boy again but the rabbit has other plans for him and sets about teaching him to be a real rabbit.

Toby is taught the ways of the rabbit community and, much to his amazement, finds that he likes being a rabbit - so much so that he asks Big Red if he can become a full member of the warren. Big Red agrees and tells Toby that he can live in the warren for as long as likes but then, Toby remembers that the wood is to be pulled down and the warren disbanded. He tells Big Red what is to happen to Rooky Wood and together they devise a plan to save it.

Come and join Toby and his friends in their attempt to save Rooky Woods.

HE NEEDS YOUR HELP!

BIG RED SONG

[Sung to the tune of Kumbya]

I'm a rabbit now, all complete,
Furry paws for hands and furry feet.
I have even grown ears so long!
Oh dear, what went wrong?

I've a fluffy tail, stuck behind,
Such a funny thing for me to find!
And my whiskers are this long

[indicating how long]

Oh dear, what went wrong?
